WELCOME TO OUR 2021/22 SEASON!

Welcome to our 2021-22 season and a return to live music! The experience of music in the moment, shared between musicians and a live audience, is incredibly special... now more than ever. In addition to live concerts, our season offers some virtual concerts for streaming, for those who are unable (or not quite ready) to attend live concerts. And this year's Confluence series features larger ensembles than we've had in the past, with two alluring programs you won't want to miss!

The 2021-22 season highlights our signature BCOC sound and the core ensemble of our Baroque "string band." We will expand those forces on occasion to include wind instruments and singers, as we explore music both familiar and new. I am thrilled to continue expanding our repertoire to include women composers and composers of color from the era, too long neglected.

Please join us for an exceptional year of beautiful Baroque music - we can't wait to see you!

Frank Nowell
Artistic Director

P.S. A fun fact — Did you know a typical BCOC concert involves some 228 strings?

Bethany Lutheran Church, 4500 E Hampden Ave, Cherry Hills Village
Denver venue to be announced

BCOC's jubilant strings and recorder, led by Cynthia Miller Freivogel, play Handel's Water Music, Suites in G and D; A Suite of Bach's Goldberg Variations; and a Telemann concerto for 2 violas featuring Vijay Chalasani and Emily Bowman; plus music by Biber and Albinoni.

VIJAY CHALASANI

A Pair of Virtual Winter Concerts - Noëls & Jaquet de la Guerre

Streaming only

One ticket provides access to this pair. Not included in 3-packs.

The second Masterworks item is a pair of virtual concerts: Festive French Noëls in December - Frank Nowell, organ joined by strings and recorders, featuring virtuosic variations by five composers, plus a few of our own!

In January, exquisite chamber music from one of the bright stars of the French Baroque, Elisabeth Jacquet de la Guerre featuring Cynthia Miller Freivogel, violin with Katherine Heater, harpsichord, and Sandra Miller, viola da gamba.

CYNTHIA FREIVOGEL

Coffee Cantata, Bach's Comic Opera

Venue and time to be announced

Bach's raucously funny and fast-paced mini-opera in which a hyper-caffeinated daughter outsmarts her father. Our imaginatively staged production features nationally acclaimed voices including soprano Danielle Sampson. Plus a Telemann flute concerto.

March 20

DANIELLE SAMPSON
